

Protect

Businesses have a responsibility to ensure that staff and assets are protected against identified threats and risks. RMI assists clients to safeguard their businesses, people and reputation, whether in Ireland or abroad.

OUR PEOPLE

As specialist military and law enforcement personnel in former careers, RMI's consultants and subject matter experts have extensive experience in assessing and managing threats and risks; and in developing security plans to protect personnel and assets. Whether it is conducting security surveys or audits, designing security systems and procedures or working with clients abroad to ensure safety of staff, our people are dedicated to their work and to our clients.

RMI's security risk specialists assist clients to understand and treat their security risks, identifying threats and ensuring the security solutions applied are appropriate to the identified needs. Our security design team helps integrate security measures into building designs from project inception, thus ensuring appropriate measures are implemented and avoiding costly retrofits later.

We work with clients and their designers/advisers/developers to understand security risks, develop operational requirements and specify appropriate physical, electronic and process solutions. Our services include:

- Security Reviews and Audits to identify vulnerabilities and support quality assurance
- Development of Operational Requirements & Technical Specifications
- Assisting with Procurement and Tender Management
- Design of Physical and Electronic Security Solutions, including for terrorist threats
- Critical Infrastructure Protection
- Policy & Procedures Development
- Intrusion Testing to test security systems and procedures to identify weaknesses and vulnerabilities
- Security Awareness Training including Workplace Harassment
- Contingency Planning for Kidnap & Ransom

24 HOUR HOTLINE

RMI provides a 24-Hour Response Service so that client crisis management teams have a continuous means by which to contact RMI and ensure a structured and immediate response to any issues that may arise. For employees travelling abroad, the RMI 24 Hour Hotline provides an extra level of care and reassurance to our clients' employees.

TRAVEL RISK

The increasing levels of threat posed by indiscriminate terrorist attacks worldwide has created a heightened level of concern. RMI has many years of experience in providing support and assistance in the development, implementation & maintenance of Personnel Risk Management programmes for companies operating internationally. Organisations operating in volatile political and security situations abroad have benefited from RMI's supports, including

- Daily alerts
- Detailed reports
- Confidential briefings on developments in a client's area of operation

Clients are kept apprised of safety and security issues as they evolve, as well as informed projections of probable future consequences to their business interests. RMI's experts ensure that you are provided with timely and accurate assessments of political or security issues, enabling informed decisions and providing reassurance to deployed personnel and their families.
